

Reducing Energy & Building a Peace Economy

7 pm, Wed. February 7, 2007

Regional Arts Commission

6128 Delmar Blvd.

St. Louis, MO 63112

As the devastation from global warming becomes worse every year, corporate America continues to fight for Iraq's oil. But does the US really have to plunder oil that will poison and fry the planet? Or can we enjoy a better quality of life by converting the war economy to organic agriculture, ecological housing, mass transportation and worker-managed industry? What sort of spiritual, moral and political revolution do we need for this change to happen?

- Jim Scheff, Missouri Forest Alliance
- Trish Grim, New Roots Urban Farm
- Catherine Marquis-Homeyer, Peace Economy Project
- Stacy Kraft, Architecture and Planning Intern
- Charles Quincy Troupe, St. Louis Board of Aldermen, Ward 1
- Dennis Gallie, Member, United Auto Workers Local 325
- Dawud Muhammad, Josephs Visions Technologies & Economic Dev.

For more info call 314-727-8554 or visit the Green's website

www.gateway-greens.org

