

7 pm, Wednesday
June 6, 2007

Legacy Books and Cafe
5249 Delmar (near Union)
St. Louis, MO 63108

For more info call 314-727-8554 or visit www.gateway-greens.org

There is greater potential for reducing greenhouse gases from military spending than from any other sector of the economy. Military production not only dangerously pollutes the environment but fails to create true social wealth.

A peace economy could rebuild US inner cities. Far more jobs would be available if military dollars were redirected to wind mill farms and other industries to protect the planet from roasting.

The forum will include:

- * Safiyah Chauvin, Universal African Peoples Organization [moderator]
- * Don Fitz, Green Party of St. Louis
- * Catherine Marquis-Homeyer, Peace Economy Project
- * Michael McPhearson, Veterans For Peace, Instead of War Coalition

MILITARY SPENDING vs. Green Jobs

I OWE YOU
$425,498,885,392 and counting!

Spending on the Iraq War can be transformed to better uses. Pick one!
3,831,237 housing units can be built
254,790,989 children can be insured
56,357,720 children can attend Head Start
20,627,357 students can get scholarships
7,373,984 public school teachers can be hired
425,000 one megawatt wind turbines can be built!