

7 pm, Wednesday
November 1, 2006

Carpenter Branch Library
3309 South Grand
St. Louis, MO 63118

No matter what changes, racism always seems to be present in American life. Panelists will recount the efforts for a civilian oversight board in St. Louis, hear a mother describe the victimization of her son and injustices of the death penalty, and examine how police brutality and the death penalty are symptoms of a racist society. Panel includes:

- John Chasnoff, Coalition Against Police Crimes & Repression (CAPCR), Green Party
- Vera Thomas, mother of death row inmate Reggie Clemons
- Jamala Rogers, Organization for Black Struggle (OBS)
- Zaki Baruti [moderator] Universal African Peoples Organization

Racism, Police Violence and the Death Penalty

For more info call 314-385-6906 or visit
www.gateway-greens.org

7 pm, Wednesday
November 1, 2006

Carpenter Branch Library
3309 South Grand
St. Louis, MO 63118

No matter what changes, racism always seems to be present in American life. Panelists will recount the efforts for a civilian oversight board in St. Louis, hear a mother describe the victimization of her son and injustices of the death penalty, and examine how police brutality and the death penalty are symptoms of a racist society. Panel includes:

- John Chasnoff, Coalition Against Police Crimes & Repression (CAPCR), Green Party
- Vera Thomas, mother of death row inmate Reggie Clemons
- Jamala Rogers, Organization for Black Struggle (OBS)
- Zaki Baruti [moderator] Universal African Peoples Organization

Racism, Police Violence and the Death Penalty

For more info call 314-385-6906 or visit
www.gateway-greens.org